

BUTTON GIRLS TRY TO START A STRIKE

Want to Be Paid for Sick Time
When Machines Pierce
Their Fingers.

TWELVE GO OUT FIRST.

Their Leader, Charlotte Quensal,
Forms Picket Line and Organizes Committee.

Twelve girls, under the leadership of Charlotte Quensal, who are employed by the Defiance Button Works, at East and North avenues, Long Island City, have formed themselves into a committee to begin a strike at the factory, alleging that they are used unjustly by their employers and underpaid. The girls claim the machines with which they make buttons are dangerous to their hands; that frequently their fingers are punctured by the punching drills with which the eyes in the buttons are made and that the company docks them for the time they take off to go to a physician or hospital to have their wounds dressed.

Forty girls are employed at the factory. Of these some work on weekly wages, receiving, they claim, about $4 a week. Others work by the piece, and it is said they do not make more than $4 and very often only $2.

A few nights ago, Miss Quensal, one of the employees, got together with some of the girls and decided to start a strike. They tried to induce others to join in the movement, but were met, she says, with the statement that the girls were afraid to risk the loss of their places by taking the initiative. Many of them promised they would join in if it looked later as if the strike would be successful. The committee of twelve then quit work and began preparations to place pickets at the factory and endeavor to induce the other girls to come out. The pickets were first seen on the grounds when the shop opened this morning.

Miss Quensal and her fellows on the committee insist that they ought to be paid for the time they are out of the factory. They are walking to a hospital to have a finger which has been lacerated by the machines of the factory attended to. She says she expects aid from labor unions, and believes a day's strike will be won.

AN INTERNATIONAL CASE.

Standard Oil Suing Another Jersey Corporation in Germany.

The Standard Oil Company obtained permission of the Federal Court in Jersey City to-day to take testimony in this country in a suit it has started in Germany against the Eagle Oil Company, a New Jersey corporation, alleging "unfair business methods."

The Standard bought out the old Eagle Works of Communipaw several years ago. The Eagle Works made a lubricating oil which it called Eagle Oil. The Standard says that the Eagle Oil Company has put on the market a lubricating oil which it calls Eagle Oil and that it has been selling this product largely in Germany. The Standard claims the name, the oil and the territory.

Carl L. Schurz, son of the late Carl Schurz, was appointed an international referee to take the testimony in his office at No. 15 William street, Manhattan.

FIRE OVER RESTAURANT.

A small blaze in the third story of No. 11 Warren street, a five-story building just off Broadway, resulted in $200 damage early to-day. A restaurant occupies the lower floor and the Manhattan Drug Company the upper floors. The fire was in the latter, and was of unknown origin.

Itching Scalp,
Dandruff and Falling Hair.

These symptoms indicate a diseased condition of the scalp and will always result in baldness if the condition is not corrected. Every day adds to the number of men and women who have entirely lost their hair because of neglect. The hair can be saved if proper treatment is administered in time, but after the hair roots are dead renewal growth is impossible. Don't delay until the hair is all gone, for nothing will grow hair on a shiny bald head.

At the Woodbury Institute treatment is given under the direct instruction of a specialist of long experience. Many thousands of cases have been treated and success is secured in every case. Write for circular, containing full information of latter still sent and talk with one of our specialists. Consultation free.

It would be foolish for me to say that I never had clothes returned because something went wrong, but I do say that the case can't be found where the wrong was not righted.
